

Executive Bio Jeffrey L. Ward

Co-Founder, CEO & Managing Partner

Jeffrey L. Ward is a strategic business leader and visionary entrepreneur who merged two passions operational excellence and artificial intelligence to co-found AiResea Partners, the first American company conceived, structured, and launched through AI collaboration.

Jeffrey's background spans decades of experience in financial services, credit analysis, business development, and client success leadership. His ability to navigate the intersection of strategy, operations, and emerging technology positioned him to recognize the revolutionary opportunity AI offers mid-sized businesses.

On April 7, 2025, Jeffrey initiated a bold experiment: he tasked an advanced AI system with creating a business proposal built entirely around his experience and market insight. That project evolved into the fully operational business plan that would become AiResea Partners.

Jeffrey will complete executive education coursework in the AI for Business Program at Harvard Business School, further cementing his expertise in applying AI practically to business growth.
